DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

1. The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. A nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting rejection is appropriate where the conflicting claims are not identical, but at least one examined application claim is not patentably distinct from the reference claim(s) because the examined application claim is either anticipated by, or would have been obvious over, the reference claim(s). See, e.g., In re Berg, 140 F.3d 1428, 46 USPQ2d 1226 (Fed. Cir. 1998); In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) or 1.321(d) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent either is shown to be commonly owned with this application, or claims an invention made as a result of activities undertaken within the scope of a joint research agreement.

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

2. Claims 12-19, and 34-41 are rejected on the ground of nonstatutory obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-9 of U.S. Patent No. 6,669,119 in view of Harrison et al. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because of common subject matter as follows:

Claim 12 of the instant application cites a method of spreading water over an evaporative cooler having flowing water over a first substantially vertical projection to divide the stream into partial streams having a predetermine ratio of flow rate, and dividing each of the two partial streams into two further streams by flowing each partial stream over a pair of further projections, which are fully disclosed in claim 1 of the '119 patent, and wherein the apparatus that shown by the '119 patent is capable of performing the method or steps recited in the claim.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 12, 15, 17-19, 34, 37, 39-41 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Ramm-Schmidt et al.

Ramm-Schmidt et al. show a water spreader in an evaporative cooler inherently performing the method steps of feeding a water stream to a water spreader arrangement through water inlet 3, dividing the water inlet into a pair of partial streams by flowing the stream over a first substantially vertical projection 20 (see figure 2) and dividing each of the two partial streams into two further streams by flowing the stream over an associated pair of further projections 14 at a second level below the first level. It should be noted that the water streams will inherently have a flow rate and since the predetermined flow rate is not further defined in the claimed it is deemed that the inherent flow rate of Ramm-Schmidt et al. water spreader meets the claimed limitation.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

Art Unit: 3752

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 13, 14, 16, 35, 36 and 38 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ramm-Schmidt et al. in view of Hartley.

Ramm-Schmidt et al. teaches all the limitations of the claims except for further flowing the streams over further projections at a level below the second level. However, Hartley inherently discloses the method steps of flowing a stream of material over the first projection and subsequently over the pair of projections at the second level and further projections at the level below the second level as shown in figure 2. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have provided the device of Ramm-Schmidt et al with flowing the streams over further projections at a level below the second level as suggested by Hartley. Doing so would provide a way to control the flowing speed (see column 1, lines 17+).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments filed 3/06/06 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

8. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 12-19, 34-41 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
